Canada's Needs

No. 2—Agricultural Prosperity

Concluding the first article in this series in which the greatest need of Canada, in order that it may become the nation intended it should be, was declared to be adequate population, the time has expired and first, foremost, it should be definitely ascertained by how many men the country is in word, why Canada failed to hold the people who immigrated to the Dominion, and even failed to hold its own native born.

The fault should be clearly established, and, in the opinion of the author, it is not hard to seek. It is, we believe, to be found in the fact that a decent Canadian agriculture is the fundamental basis of the wonderful productivity of its soil, and the virility of its climate and people; the business of farming is not a paying one, with the inevitable consequence that agriculture languishes and thousands of people who engage in it give up their calling in view of struggle, while others themselves are compelled to wear out making any material advance and become wholly disheartened.

As long as such a condition continues, and millions of acres of arable land remain unsettled and unproductive, all industry in Canada will suffer, and railway construction will be operated at a loss or be forced to impose high and heavy rates upon the commerce of the country as to constitute another and serious obstacle to settlement, development and the business of the Dominion.

All observant men must admit that there is something radically wrong with the second largest grain crop ever raised in Canada.

Yard grain, so far as quality is concerned, proved to be not a debt-paying crop but a debt-producing crop. The hundreds of millions of bushels of grain grown and harvested in 1921 should have given a great impetus to business in Canada should have paid off millions of debts contracted in the previous poor years, and should have started many people the road to prosperity. But alas, alas, as a whole the crop of 1921 cost the farmers more to produce than it realized from its sale. And this disheartening experience of the grain grower was duplicated in the case of the livestock producer.

The farmer, as always, in his efforts to succeed to secure thousands of new settlers to come to Canada and engage in agricultural production, conditions confronting and governing agriculture in Canada must first be righted.

The weather always he years in which adverse weather conditions occur, years when plagues of grasshoppers, or rust, or some other pest will prevail to a certain extent, but every farmer is prepared for these. These things alone did not bring thousands of Western farmers face to face with disaster and ruin this year. Despite such drawbacks as the ravages of the blight and incursion of the locust with the raising and harvesting and marketing of the 1921 crop, there would have been a profit had anything like a price comparable with the costs of production been obtainable. But just as soon as the crop began to move the bottom fell out of the market and the grain price dropped to all, at a price less than the costs of production and transportation.

That's the situation in a nutshell, and the result is that not only the Western farmers, and the West generally where prosperity depends upon the success of the farmers, but the whole industrial world of Canada is suffering. Business in the East as well as in the West is the deadest it's been since the war.

Agriculturists, we repeat, expect to face the vagaries and caprices with the vicissitudes of nature, but as individuals they cannot bat such a combination of circumstances as confronted them during 1921 and will confront them again unless Canada wakes up as a nation and grapples with what is our outstanding national problem. A solution must be found, and found quickly, if Canada is to grow and prosper.

Canada can only trade by developing a large and profitable export trade. The chief exports of this Dominion are, and for the last year must continue to be, the natural products of its farms, its mines, its forests, and its fisheries. World markets for these products must be found and developed. The fiscal policy of this Dominion should be so framed as to encourage such a development.

The home market for factory products is of no value if the home people have not the money wherewith to purchase the manufactured goods, and the great mass of Canadian consumers cannot have money if the products of Canada's farms do not command a price in excess of the cost of producing grain and livestock.

If the total population of Canada must be self-sufficient, with an industrial urban population sufficiently large to consume all that the agricultural rural population can raise, and vice versa, but not so in a country like Canada with an enormous undeveloped area of arable land and other natural resources and a sparse population thinly spread over the land, there must be many more people in Canada must move from one land than its own people can consume, and a profitable market must be had for the surplus in order that the whole country may prosper.

Professor Says Sea Is Shrinking

Attributed to Collection of Ice at South Pole

The oceans are shrinking. This change, asserts a professor of Harvard University, is quite independent of local rises and falls caused by the warping of the earth's crust.

FACE WAS FULL OF PIMPLES.

For Three Years, Hard and Awfully Sore, Disfigured, Cuticura Heals.

"I had been suffering with a pimpley face for three years. My face was full of pimples and they were hard and sorely sore. They bothered me and dried up, and were scaly, and I could not get rid of them to lose a lot of sleep, and were exceedingly itchy, making me scratch and scratch."

"I started to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and the pimples calmed down, and were not so sore. Then I stopped using it, and the pimples came back to life, and I had to use a lot of sleep, and were exceedingly itchy, making me scratch and scratch."

"I started to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and the pimples calmed down, and were not so sore. Then I stopped using it, and the pimples came back to life, and I had to use a lot of sleep, and were exceedingly itchy, making me scratch and scratch."

On the other hand, there are many places round our coast line where the sea is stealing land, says Anawra.

"There is an old saying on the east coast."

"'Gorleston was Gorleston ere Yarmouth was born, and Gorleston'll be born ere Yarmouth's born.'

Gorleston and Yarmouth are opposite banks of the Yare. North of Yare, Yarmouth is situated on low land, and the sea is gradually encroaching on the town. The sea has now completely covered by the sea, although they were recently exposed to view—a rare event nowadays.

"The Gorleston sea front is protected by cliffs, and as if afraid of them, the sea is retreating."

But the American professor does not take any account of local changes made to the sea front, and thinks of them as the same.

He claims that the world is twenty feet lower than it has been, and this he attributes to an increase in the collection of ice at the South Pole.

Coldstet Place in U.S.

Havre, Mont., is said to be the coldest place in the United States. Its winter temperatures are lower than the winter temperatures of Alaska. At Fairbanks, Alaska, the northernmost point of Alaska, the lowest recorded temperature is 14 degrees below zero, temperatures below 60 degrees.

CRESTON—Last Sunday Jan. 1st, while helping to transfer a big water tank from the wagon on which it operated all summer, to a sleigh—in order to give a house-to-house delivery while the East Creston water system is frozen up—Principal Smith had the second and third fingers of his right hand so badly crushed that they had to be amputated, and he is carrying on school work just as present with his arm in a sling.

The most sincere sympathy and respect of the whole community is extended to Mr. Smith in his great misfortune, which baffle him while thinking and working for the good of the people of his community.

The Bow Island Review wishes Mr. Smith will accept its deepest sympathy in his unfortunate accident, which is brightened by the knowledge that the injury was caused while working for others.

Now many Fortune smile its best upon him and no mere accidents happen to him, is our hearty wish—for he deserves it.

How to Get Rid of Cutworms

TORONTO.—Ten years ago the pale western cutworm was scarcely known, except to a few entomologists; today it is the worst enemy of grain crops in the Canadian west.

This startling statement was contained in an address given today before the entomological section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Strickland, of the entomological branch of Canada.

Fisheries Tell of the Western pest.

"One who has not actually seen a field in Southern Alberta laid waste by this insect can scarcely appreciate the devastation of which it is capable," continued Mr. Strickland, whose work as Dominion entomological officer at Lethbridge, Alta., is widely known. "Large patches of land, completely bare, with green with Russian thistles, tell the story of its work all too plainly, and sometimes an entire field is so completely destroyed that one has to look closely to see whether or not any crop had been planted there."

According to the speaker, the first serious outbreak of these cutworms occurred in Southern Alberta in 1912 when an area of some 25,000 acres of grain was destroyed in one district.

Mr. Strickland was sent to investigate, and found the pest was well established, but as yet had not fully effective means of killing the pest, so he suggested various devices, which aimed at the killing of the parents before egg laying, had been tried out by him, but none had been found entirely successful, since these either allowed the escape of too many moths or required too much attention.

Efforts to exterminate Pest.

In his latest device, and one which he hopes will be successful, this year—Alberta Moth Traps consist of a quartz bottle filled with a 10 per cent solution of molasses, poisoned with quassia and arsenic. A portion of the bottle is cut off and a cage of wire mesh inserted between the flat sides of the cork and bottle.

The latter was inverted and wired to the west side of a fence post, so that the sun would not shine directly on the trap and afternoon that being the time of day when the moths were most actively feeding.

The sun's heat caused a flow of the poisoned bait, which attracted the moths.

By attaching a paper funnel around the bottom hole, the speaker continued, the moths which fed on the poison, became stoned and the stoned ones were picked up and the carcasses buried in the ground within a few hours.

A quart bottle would flow every afternoon for 14 days and required no further attention until empty.

Western Grain Shipments From Pacific Port Reaching Unlooked For Dimensions

After years of controversy with on the one hand maintained that Canadian grain would never leave from the Pacific coast, and on the other a sanguine assurance that ultimately this would come to pass Vancouver is coming into its own as a port of entry for the grain of the prairie provinces. Though the first shipment was made only last year, developments since that time and the volume of grain in prospect for the coming season leave no doubt as to the future status of Vancouver as a grain shipping port for the product of the prairies.

The movement of the first big shipments to Europe by way of the Pacific was watched with considerable interest, and attention, from many quarters was directed to the reception at the English port. There was substantial evidence that the grain would suffer passing through the tropical region of the Panama zone, but, when unloaded in England, grain experts stated that grain had never been received there in better condition. The grain had been well dried, breathed easily and saw a wonderful future opened up for the Pacific coast in sharing with the east the business of carrying the grain products of the western prairies. Other ships followed immediately upon the first, and by the end of the season sixteen tonns of grain, mostly wheat, had left Vancouver for Europe via the Panama Canal.

This year shipments from the Pacific coast to Europe began just as soon as the movement of the threshed crops from the prairie provinces. May and June, the port business has been almost at a standstill during the present season, approximately ten weeks as much grain will pass through Vancouver for Europe as was shipped last year. This is according to estimate, to be at least 160,000 tons. There will be, it is considered, about forty cargoes.

Another departure in the export of grain this year has been the shipment of sacked wheat from Vancouver to Japan. Hitherto Japan has been contented with the softer grains of the prairie provinces, but now Canadian products are now held in high favor, is evidenced in the extensive demand, November consignments to the Orient from the Pacific coast port totaling seven thousand tons.

The success of initial export shipments of Canadian grain from Vancouver to all parts of the world leaves no shadow of doubt as to the great future which lies ahead in respect to the western grainries, an outlet for a portion of their annual crop, and the success of shipments through the Panama Canal to Europe is fraught with significant possibilities.

Every year a certain amount of congestion occurs with the enormous product of the prairie provinces flooding the terminal grain elevators and export docks at the end of the year.

The heat in increases in annual production which will probably continue in greater proportion in the future, will tax the eastern port facilities to the limit, and the end of Vancouver year shipments will considerably augment the importance of the British Columbia port.

Holland's Unique Industry

Country Has Market for Seaweed Harvested Every Year

That every year there is a harvest of seaweed is a fact which is not generally known.

This industry is carried on in Holland. The sea weed is known to the Dutchmen who take almost the entire surface of the water. The harvesters, clothed in waterproof garments reaching to the shoulders, work while the tide is low.

When the harvest is begun, only one scythe was used at a time, but now several are fixed to a line which the workers draw to and fro in a saw-like manner above the base of the weed.

After the scythes have been run over in order that it may be withered by the sun. When it becomes black it is soaked in water. The scythes are then broken, the harvested seaweed and the thicken, the wet, the higher becomes its value.

After being soaked for a few days, the product is spread out in the fields until it is dry enough to be threshed. It is made up into balls weighing about one hundred pounds each. It is then ready for the market.

Seaweed has been found to produce gelatine of a very high quality.

A Treasured Tree

Home Oranges Continuously For Eight Years

An orange tree has borne fruit continuously for eight years. It is the treasured possession of some horticulturist in Florida.

The tree, which is guarded day and night, shows no signs of ceasing in its phenomenal production of fruit. Some trees, however, are said to be isolated freaks of Nature, but it is now the opinion of experts that it represents a new species, and experiments are being carried on with a view to establishing large groves of such trees.

Incidentally, the government claims that there has been a decrease in the cattle and swine figures, but the government points to the great field for sheep on the prairies.

Magnificent Donation

By Indian Prince

$ands 2,000 to Fund Princess Mary's Wedding Gift

A magnificent donation to a fund one of the London Journals is raising for a wedding gift to Princess Mary, the daughter of King George V, was made by the Maharajah Gaikwar of Baroda. The Maharajah (or is it the Gaikwar?) is said to be the sum of $2,000. His Highness is one of the most royal, as well as the most benevolent, of the Indian potentates, and he made magnificent gifts to help the British during the war.

The particular wedding gift to which he has contributed is to be devoted to the benefit of two children's hospitals in which the Princess takes a keen interest.

According to Scripture

"Behold, dear cook's going to save," said the minister's daughter, "and I don't think we'll ever get another."

"Dear, dear!" This seems a pity. Couldn't you do something?"

"Oh, no, my master's not honest, he's always been a cheater."

The minister blushed over his subsequent outburst.

"Scripture asserts, my dear," said he, "that if a man takes away my wife, I must have the child."

"Exactly," replied the clergyman's daughter. "I found her stealing potatoes, so I've given her back."

Motor Fatalities High

Nine thousand one hundred and three persons were killed in the United States by automobiles and other motor vehicles, except motorcycles, during 1920, the Census Bureau states. This represents a death rate of 10.4 per 100,000 in population, which is 1 per cent, higher than the motor vehicle fatality rate in 1919.

Honor Anniversary Of Wolfe's Birthday

Members Present Representing Regiments Associated With Historic Campaign

At the annual dinner in honor of the birthday of General Wolfe, held recently at Westerham, Eng., Wolfe's birthplace, the guest of the evening was the Marquis of Iligo, who claims to be the direct descendant of the officers who carried the colors and supported General Wolfe when he received his fatal wound on the battlefield.

There were a number present representing the regiments associated with Wolfe's campaign or claiming connection with his fellow officers.

Gen. Sir Edward Hutton gave the toast of the evening which was drunk in silence. A cablegram was sent to the mayor of Quebec.

Big Shipment of Silver Foxes

Vast Number Animals Shipped From Prince Edward Island

One of the largest shipments of pedigreed silver black foxes to leave Prince Edward Island was shipped recently, and consisted of three hundred and fifty-four animals from the Royal Colony, Colorado, Wheaton, and Washington.

After being packed for a few days, the product is spread out in the fields until it is dry enough to be threshed.

After being threshed, the foxes are shipped by express, occupying two express certificates, veterinary health certificates, consular invoices and exportation permits.

The demand for high grade Prince Edward Island silver foxes is increasing rapidly, and is increasing rapidly from year to year.

"Oh, yes—and that's what's the trouble." They're poor, she smothered and oppressed as if she were visiting somewhere, and not at home. "I'm not poor, but I'm not rich. You see, Miss Flora has a maid. You see, Miss Flora has always lived very simply. She isn't used to having servants. I don't know which, if you ever employed maid, you would know it's terrible state of affairs."

"Oh—but she'll get used to it in time," she said. "It's not always a hardship, though." She was in her room, in her bed, and it was as bad as always living in a hotel; she wailed to me like a child. "I know it's true, I was so afraid always I'd do something that wasn't quite right, and then I was worried in the dining-room, and I was anticipating so much getting home where I could be with my mother. I've got one in my own house!"

Mr. Smith frowned, but he laughed, too.

"Poor Miss Flora! But why doesn't she dismiss the lady?"

Besides, there's Hattie. She says Hattie is always telling me to do this and that. She's being invited out, too, the Penstocks, and the Denisons, and the Wards, and the Glens, and the Clares. She says she loves to run in and see people, and she loves to go to parties, and she loves to go to sewing; but that these things where you go and stand up and eat and drink and laugh and talk and not really see anybody, are a misfortune and a bore.

"Well, she's on right, though," chuckled Mr. Smith.

"She's been here, hasn't she?" smiled Miss Maggie; "but that isn't telling me how to make her contented."

"I'm sorry, but I am," snapped Mr. Smith, with an irritability that was as sudden as it was apparent. "I have no time to tell you what had to tell any woman on this earth how to be contented—with a man."

"It would seem so, wouldn't it?"

Something in Miss Maggie's keen glance of interrogation,

Strength

Strength of muscle does not indicate strength of nerves. On this account many people who look healthy enough to fill the world with trouble and cannot understand what is ailing them. Sleeplessness and irritability are among the early symptoms. Indigestion and tired feelings soon follow.

Read this letter from an Ontario doctor:

Mr. W. L. Gregory, Charles St., Ingersoll, Ont., writes:

"I had been troubled for quite a while with indigestion. At times I would feel sick, and have a series of cramps in my stomach; and I also found it difficult to get a good night's sleep. I am a doctor myself, and I know that my work system became run-down. I took a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I am now well again. They did me a great deal of good. I have not been bothered at all since. I am now in excellent health, and much better. I have recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to many of my friends, and they have all found it a real life-saver, and needing a tonic."

"You mean—would like the chance to prove it? That you wish to have that hundred thousand?"

"Oh, I didn't say—that," twinkled Mrs. Smith. "I just wanted to know what you wanted to do with it."

It was at that same afternoon that Mr. Smith met Mrs. Jane Blasdale on the street.

"You're just the man I want to see," she accented him eagerly.

"Then I'll turn and walk along with you, Mrs. Smith."

"What can I do for you?"

"Well, I don't know as you can do anything for me, but I do know somebody's got to do something. Could you—do you suppose you could interest yourself in this Blasdale case?"

"I do," Miss Maggie said firmly.

"Mr. Smith's a start, looking out for himself."

"Blasdale business?" he stammered.

"Well, I think he was—was—interested in making money."

"Oh, he was, for a time; but it's too far for me to go into that. I don't know anything before it did come cold, just as he does of everything. Well, I do know that he was interested in this ancestor business? Oh, I wish you could tell me more about it. It's so nice and quiet, and you could tell me all about it. Clubs and caddies and gasoline, anyway."

"Do you think you could tell me?"

"Who?" asked Mr. Smith. "Miss Flora?"

"Well, I wish you would tell me what you found, of course."

Then why load up on handicaps for the day's work?

A good deal of food, unwisely chosen, does weigh the body down and clog the digestion, and dull the brain.

Why put on the hobbies?

Grape-Nuts is a breakfast or lunch-time dish for those who want food efficiency, and mind and body efficiency.

Grape-Nuts satisfies and nourishes. It delights the taste. It is ready to serve whenever you are ready to eat. And it digests easily, quickly and completely—leaving no handicap of heaviness and drowsiness.

Grape-Nuts is the food for health and action.

Profitable Mining

Gobalt District Produced $200,000,000 Worth of Silver in 1921

According to statistics already gathered and estimates being prepared for 1921 it is evident that the value of silver produced up to the end of 1921 from Cobalt and surrounding district will reach an aggregate of close to $200,000,000. Total dividends from the silver mines will exceed $32,000,000, and with the expenses connected therewith, which includes disbursements actually made, show a net profit of over 50 per cent. of the gross yield. The Marvels Of Alumimum

When Aligned With Other Metals Weight Practically Unchanged

Ever since aluminum was produced in a commercial form the greatest interest has been taken in its application to various engineering structures where its strength and durability is desirable.

It was soon found that when aluminum was alloyed with other metals its strength was greatly increased without any great change in weight.

It has been used in the structure of airships and aeroplanes, and the results have been so promising that a special committee was formed in Great Britain to study the mechanical properties of the various kinds of aluminum alloys.

A report recently issued by the British Government.

This research has resulted in the discovery of many alloys which are of great promise for practically all kinds of engineering, particularly in aircraft construction.

The only problem awaiting solution is the production of these alloys in a commercial scale.

A beginning has been made in this direction by a British Government factory; and British manufacturers are looking closely into the possibility of producing some of these wonderful substances for regular use in place of steel.

GRASSY LAKE

Last Wednesday a large party of friends surprised John Ellington Cards and dancing ensued till the early morning, and after a sumptuous supper all went home tired and happy.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Reid attended the Old Timers' dance in Lethbridge and report a royal good time.

Mrs. H.J. McNabb gave a delightful party at her home last Friday afternoon. The guests were Mrs. Odile, Mrs. Gold, Mrs. McKay, Mrs. McLoughlin, Mrs. McNiven, Mrs. Eisenbauer, Mrs. Gwilliams and Mrs. Silver.

Mr. Fenn, of the Canada Security Insurance Co., Calgary, was in town last week appraising the damage of the fire.

Mrs. Silcox, one of school principal, and her son, Norman, have left for Barrie, where she has a position to teach. A large crowd of friends were on the station platform to see them off.

Last Monday night a Masquerade ball took place in the G.W.V. A. hall and was a success. The costumes were many and various.

Masqueraders attended from Purple Springs, Burdett, Bow Island, and Winnifred. Excellent music was supplied.

After midnight everyone went to bed, but the fun did not stop. The hotel, dancing and merriment went on till the early morning transformed the crowd and all report the best time they have had this year of 1922.

At the general meeting of the Great War Veterans held in their hall last week the following officers were elected:

President, Peter Peterson; first vice-president, Glynn Eisenbauer; second vice-president, James Stewart; Secretary treasurer, Charles Barton; executive and trustees of the club and hall are Walter Gwilliams, Hugh Scott and Ed. James.

At the meeting it was proposed to entertain the community to a free dance and supper, which took place last Thursday night, and not only this community, but nearly the whole of Burdett attended. The Veterans, not expecting so big a crowd, were sorely taxed to feed so many. However everyone had a splendid time and appreciated the generosity of the Veterans in providing this entertainment.

We are now hoping that the Burdett Veterans will return this compliment by giving a similar entertainment.

Mr. Stephen F. Hall arrived from Sarnia, Ont., early Thursday morning to take over the duties of principal of school. As Mr. Hall comes well recommended from Sarnia we are in hopes he will make a successful teacher.
